Turning waste into wealth could not be more on-trend right now, and for all the right reasons. Plastics and polymer recycling is good for business, and good for the planet. It's a win-win. It can help protect and improve our environment. Everyday plastics can be recycled into useful products. Bottles and containers used for milk, shampoo, household cleaners, etc. can be recycled into new bottles, recycling bins, playground equipment, lawn furniture, and more. Also, plastic bags used for groceries can be recycled into new bags or into plastic lumber that can be used as an alternative to wood to create fences, park benches, etc. nika.espz	4
Rechageable batteries are very beneficial to both our lives and nature, so we should prefer rechargeable batteries. 9A kenanefe.SAL	4
My idea is selling furniture and home goods from recycled materials. We can compete in the furniture market while being enviornment friendly and it's much more cheaper. - Antun ESPZ	2
Although there are fewer and fewer elastic bags today, they are still used and pollute the environment. Paper is less polluting, but it is not practical to buy, it can often crack and cannot be used more than once, so my idea is to sell canvas bags made of recycled shopping material that can be reused. Sara. espz	2

My idea is that every household from the city or municipality gets free cloth bags to use as little plastic as possible and maybe make some instructive video on the subject. Marija.espz	2
I think that should be recycled garbage, and from it we can make new clothes that later on we can recycle. Eva Espz	2
My idea is called "Buy, Fix, Love" where everything that can be fixed would be repaired and used. Dora Mia ESPZ	2
My idea is to cut off parts of the clothes we no longer wear and use them as dish towels or pillowcases. Antonija espz	2
Ever since technological tools came into our lives, people have stopped talking to each other. Robots are putting people out of their jobs. Yes, it makes some things easier in our lives, but this should have a limit. Please don't be addicted to technology. 9Byasemin.SAL	1

Since technology is developing rapidly and fashion is constantly changing, let's produce clothes that can disappear completely. clothes that do not harm nature, are made of cheap raw materials, do not produce waste and can be completely destroyed. Mustafa sal	1
Our world is rapidly disappearing. fires, climate crisis and temperature are increasing day by day. So let's increase the number of bees to increase our disappearing trees. We can speed up fertilization and pollination by producing artificial bees. thus we contribute to the production of more trees and plants. Döne sal	1
Adeviye sal:By inventing artificial rain clouds, we can make it rain with our remote controlled clouds whenever we want. thus, drought and infertility are prevented. It is also a solution for forest fires. Adeviye sal	1

App development requires a low initial investment and a few resources to start up, meaning nearly anyone with a solid idea for a mobile app that's entertaining or useful can potentially succeed. The app industry is also highly profitable, with more than $28 billion spent on apps in 2020 alone. So anyone who comes up with an idea for an app their friends and family would use can likely develop a successful small business around it.	1
My idea is to make new ones from old plastic bottles. This is how we protect our planet, care for the environment and care for future generations. Ilijana.espz	1
My idea is to recycle waste items, to teach people online lessons about the harm that waste items do to nature and how to evaluate waste items. In this way, people will be conscious and they will do less harm to the environment. 10Aemine.SAL	1
